Residence and Travel Controls

1. All persons in Chungking must be registered with the authorities. Although there are no personal identification cards, each family is required to have a family registration book, which must be obtained in person from the district police branch office. The family registration book is a loose leaf notebook eight Chinese inches in width and five Chinese inches in length containing five pages.¹ The name on the cover of the registration book is Chungking City Public Security Bureau Population Registration Book (6850/1987/1579/0361/1344/1444/0086/0656/4098/6068/4689). On the first three pages in the registration book are recorded the name, age, sex, nativity, and education of each member of the family, while the last three pages are used for recording the names of guests living with the family. The names of such guests must be reported to the police by the head of the family. A notice on the last page states that the registration book is subject to check by the census police officers at any time. Criminal records of persons are also entered in the registration book. No alterations of any entries in the book are permitted. If the registration book is lost or if there are any changes to be made in entries in the book, the head of the family must immediately notify the police.
2. A fee of JMP 100 is charged when a registration book is obtained. There is no definite time limit on the validity of the registration book. [Redacted] 25X1
3. No travel permit is required for travel within Szechuan.² However, merchants in Szechuan traveling on business are required to have travel permits. A merchant's travel permit is a document three Chinese inches in width and five Chinese inches in length with a red cover. The name on the cover of the permit is Itinerant Merchant's Permit (5887/0794/6214), and recorded on the pages inside the cover are the holder's name, address, amount of capital, and
